This paper is strictly non-partisan. Its columns have been open to all candidates for a fair statement of their respective platforms, and from time to time we have given news items concerning the political situation as a matter of interest to our readers, but from a political standpoint have not tried to influence them. May the vote cast next Tuesday be for the common welfare of county, state and citizen.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION

Next Tuesday, August 27, is the Primary election. It is your duty to vote. Don't be a slacker. Do your duty, and do it conscientiously. No matter if you did not state your "party affiliations," you can vote for county officials and the candidates for Superior Judge, of which there are eight to choose.

You can vote for eight different candidates for Superior Judge next Tuesday. Show your faith in "equal suffrage" by marking an "X" after the name of Orfa Jean Shontz, the only woman candidate. She has been tried, and found capable and efficient.

IOWANS HEAR JUDGE HOUSER

At the Iowa picnic held at Long Beach recently, Judge Frederick W. Houser of the superior court made the response to the welcoming address. Judge Houser, though a candidate for re-election to his present position as judge of the superior court, is not making many political addresses, because of the fact that he believes his position as chairman of the Red Cross chapter at Alhambra indicates that he should not indulge in political activities, but rather should devote his surplus energies to winning the war. ADVT.

S. W. ODELL, CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS, ANSWERS THE TIMES IN OPEN LETTER

Pasadena, Cal., August 16, 1918.

Editor The Los Angeles Times,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir: Your editorial of August 13th, entitled "Randall's Sardonic Smile," after giving your opinion of the apparent strength of Mr. Flowers as a candidate for Representative in Congres on the Republican ticket, closes with the question, "Do you Mr. Mushet, and Mr. Reagan, do you, Mr. Odell, desire to play into Randall's hands?" As this question is in your paper, it demands and answer, and in all fairness demands that you print the answer, as I shall also in other papers. It is a fair question. Of course the answer is "No." My further answer is that it is impossible for Mr. Flowers to defeat Mr. Randall.

My reasons for this statement are as follows: With all other true Republicans, I am an enthusiastic supporter of the Allied cause and anxious to win the war soon in order to save thousands of American lives, including those of my two sons who are in the service. To accomplish that end, we must not send to Congress anyone who might hinder that desirable result. While I might criticise the methods pursued by Mr. Flowers in holding mass meetings announced as patriotic meetings, at which he gives his Chautauqua address, I am far and beyond that concerned about the effect his election would have upon allied harmony and the winning of the war.

First, Mr. Flowers came to us publishing a letter of recommendation from Arthur H. Geisler, of Oklahoma, late State Chairman of the Republican Party. It now appears that Geisler was removed from that position about

May 15th last, and denounced as a Pro-German. Second, Mr. Flowers gave at Sierra Madre, in this County, and other points in the United States, an address on Japan, bitterly denouncing the country as a menace to the United States. It is reported on good authority that the United States Government stopped this address. He also wrote a book on the same subject. On August 12, 1918, a Japanese newspaper representative, engaged in publicity work in this country, J. G. Kasai, spoke before the City Club of Los Angeles, and denounced the book as a part of the German propaganda designed to destroy the harmony between the Allies. Those who heard him were astounded. Third, your own editor commented on the book when it appeared, and described Mr. Flowers as an alarmist.

We must not endanger our relations with Japan by sending to Washington any man who might destroy the harmony between Japan and this Country. Japan has a mighty army. I hope that the Allies will determine to let loose that valiant army on the Huns' eastern front at once; it would shorten the war, and save thousands of American lives. It simply will not do to send anyone to Congress who has bitterly estranged the Japanese people from him by his works. For such reasons, Mr. Flowers would not be able to win the election in November, even if he had the nomination.

You also state that Mr. Flowers has been selected by the Republicans to make the race against Randall. The fact is that 75 per cent of the leading Republicans of the District had signed written endorsements of myself for this race before Mr. Flowers was selected by you. I have offered repeatedly to leave the selection of a candidate to impartial commitees, and I have challenged Mr. Flowers to joint discussions in the District at which I might say these things to his face. All these propositions have been rejected, and we must go before the people and leave the burden of defeating the Republican party, if it is defeated, on your shoulders, where it belongs.

Sincerely yours,

S. W. ODELL.

WOOLWINE'S PRE-ELECTION STATEMENT

THOMAS LEE WOOLWINE, District Attorney of Los Angeles County, and straight Democratic candidate for GOVERNOR, made the following pre-election statement yesterday:

"I shall unquestionably be nominated by the Democrats of California. At this time the Democratic party is in control of the destinies of this nation the Democrats of the state are in no humor to surrender their party control to those who are at heart not in sympahty with the traditions of that party. Mayor Rolph is a known Republican, and Mr. Heney was a registered Republican until April of this year. I am the only Democrat running for the straight Democratic nomination and I am not seeking the nomination of any other party as are my opponents.

"I have twice been elected District Attorney of Los Angeles County by unprecedented majorities of 41,000 and 53,000 respectively. This may serve as some indication of my strength in the South. In the eleven counties of Southern California I will beat my opponents by more than two to one. The mountain and valley counties of California will respond with very heavy pluralities in my favor. The contest between Rolph and Heney in San Francisco and the Bay Cities will result in such a division of the vote that I have every reason to believe that I will be the recipient of the straight Democratic vote in that vicinity."

You need a Republican in Congress educated in law to represent this district. Great questions are to be solved after the war. Samuel W. Odell, Candidate for Representative in Congress, is a lawyer of thirty years' practice in State and Federal Courts. He is also a regularly admitted pension attorney. Vote for him August 27th. AD.

No matter if you did not state your "party affiliations" when you registered, you can vote next Tuesday for the Judicial candidates, and county officials, which are non-partisan. Do your duty. Vote.

SEN. CARR'S RECORD

William J. Carr (the incumbent), who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Senator from this district, was city attorney of Pasadena in 1910-11-12. He was an aggressive fighter for the Pasadena municipal lighting plant, and one of the men responsible for its success. This plant has saved the people of Pasadena, through reduced rates, hundreds of thousands of dollars.

As city attorney, he concluded the long litigation between municipalities and the Sunset Telephone Company, which established the right of cities to charge for the use of their streets. As a result of the successful outcome of this litigation, the telephone company was forced to pay to the city of Pasadena over $30,000 in cash for back use of the city's streets. Following this, and largely through Senator Carr's guidance, the dual telephone system in Pasadena was eliminated. This has been a great convenience to the people of Pasadena, and has saved the subscribers very large sums of money.

As representative of this district in the State Senate for six years, he has stood squarely for the great humanitarian, constructive and progressive policies of the Johnson administration. He is one of the most useful and influential members of the Senate.

At the last session he introduced and handled in the Senate, the County Unit Bill of the Anti-Saloon League, which, if it had passed, would have made it possible to eliminate Vernon and other places of that character.

Lieutenant Governor Wallace, who is in a position to speak authoritatively of Senator Carr's ability and record, has this to say:

"Senator Carr is needed today in the California legislature. His record in the Senate, as I had full opportunity to observe, showed intelligence, industry, and faithfulness. He wins the confidence of his associates, and his trained legal mind is invaluable. He was a consistent supporter of good measures, and was an active and reliable worker for prohibition."

The next legislature will be a war legislature and the most important in the state's history. It is highly important to have there experienced and influential men like Senator Carr.

PROCEEDINGS OF BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees assembled at 8:30 p. m., August 22, 1918. All members present at roll call.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

A petition was presented signed by J. H. Flower and about seventy-five other owners of property on Broadway the necessary steps to open and widen Broadway from Central Avenue West, accompanied by a map showing the proposed work and outlining an assessment district to be assessed for the payment of the expense of the proceedings. A number of property owners, residents of the district West of Central Avenue, were present, and Mr. J. S. Thompson addressed the Board in opposition to the project. Mr. Thompson stated that in his opinion no such work should be attempted during the period of the war, and further that there is no necessity existing for the widening of the street; that it would be impracticable to make a wider street as proposed and have it conform to present street improvements.

Mr. Sprowles, representing Mrs. Wood, one of the property owners interested, protested against the project.

A number of other property owners on Broadway west of Central Avenue were present and expressed their opposition to the work outlined in the petition, among them being Messrs. Lapham, Carr, Schremp, Sholes and Reed.

Mr. John A. Cole, who had circulated the petition, spoke in favor of the project, as did also Mr. P. W. Parker. Mr. Cole stated that the names signed to the petition represented 10,883 feet of frontage in the district outlined. Mr. Parker stated that in his opinion the improvement would be of great value to the City and expressed his belief that the war would be ended and a period of unprecedented prosperity entered into before any actual work could be done, even if started at the present time. On motion of Trustee Shaw, the petition was referred to the Board of Public Works, and the City Engineer requested to report on the total frontage represented by the signers of the petition, the total frontage in the district and how much frontage represented in the petition lies West of Central Avenue by the following roll call:

AYES: Henry, Jackson, Muhleman, Shaw, Woodberry. NOES: None.

A communication was read from James E. Barker, the expert employed by the City to obtain data for the use of the City in its application to the Railroad Commission to fix the valuation upon the property of the Southern California Gas Company in this City. The communication stated that Mr. Barker had made a complete inventory and appraisal of all property, except office equipment, stores and supplies, etc., belonging to the Southern California Gas Company in the cities of Glendale and Eagle Rock, and in the territory north and west of Glendale; also in that portion of the City of Los Angeles supplied from Glendale. The report consisting of eighty-nine pages, had been delivered to City Attorney Evans. The communication stated that whenever the case was resumed before the Railroad Commission, the report can be brought down to date. Accompanying the report was the bill for Mr. Barker's services, amounting to $365.00. On motion, the communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Clerk reported having received a communication from the California Tax Agency, Inc., of Los Angeles, asking for an estimate of the cost of redeeming lots 6, 7, and 14 in the Max Muir Tract. He stated that the property had been sold to the City of Glendale for delinquent taxes, the amount of which in addition to the cost of fencing and the assessment for the opening and widening of Broadway represented an investment on the part of the City amounting to $349.80. On motion of Trustee Henry, the Clerk was instructed to answer the communication by stating that the City will give a quit claim deed to the property in consideration of the pay-nent of the amount of its investnent and expense in connection with the lots; by the following roll call:

AYES: Henry, Jackson, Muhleman, Shaw, Woodberry. NOES: None.

The Clerk presented a communication filed on this date from C. L. Thedaker, Agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company in Glendale, accompanied by a bill amounting to $999.01 for the expense of moving the tower on Brand Boulevard at the Southern Pacific crossing in accordance with an agreement dated July 8, 1918. On motion of Trustee Shaw, the City Clerk was instructed to communicate with Mr. W. C. Wattles, former Engineer of the City of Tropico, and obtain a statement from him in regard to bill presented.

The City Manager reported work being done by the City on Los Feliz Road, Tropico District.

The City Attorney reported in regard to the application to the Capital Issues Committee for permission to sell bonds; that he had been informed that the local Body at San Francisco had made its recommendation to headquarters, but that the substance of it had not been made known. On motion of Trustee Shaw, the City Attorney was authorized to expend the sum of $25 in defense of the City's interests in connection with the Edison Company's application to the Railroad Commission to raise rates. A motion by Trustee Shaw was adopted authorizing the City Attorney to appear and attend to the interests of the City in the above mentinoned case.

At 10:30 p. m. the Board adjourned.

DR. JESSIE A. RUSSELL FOR THE LEGISLATURE

Los Angeles, August 17, 1918.
Editor Tropico Herald:

"What is the matter with the people of California?" asked a prominent Eastern woman of the writer, "I have met so many capable women while here, and with the ballot so many years, why don't you send women to the Legislature, we Eastern women are asking the question, why?"

The need of the Mother influence and power in every legislature is great. The business father legislators are so busy with the finances that they have scant time of thought for moral laws so vital to humanity. Never in the history of California because of reconstruction ,was the women's voice, influence and vote so needed in our legislature to protect the moral laws we now have, enact those needed; and to ward off the measure that may be introduced that would, if passed, destroy the best interests of the home. All legislators should be carefully chosen, not only because they will promise to vote right, but added to that there must be other qualifications; to properly comprehend and draft laws a legislator should have a very comprehensive legal knowledge, together with broad legislative experience. Dr. Russell is the candidate who meets these and other requirements.

The 61st Assembly District will not only bring honor to its constituency, but to California and the Nation by sending Dr. Jessie A. Russell to our next assembly. A capable mother-hearted woman who meets the needs and requirements, a woman fair-minded, broad in experience and outlook, quick and wise in decision, one who will not only vote right but will ever be on the alert to check unrighteous legislation—a good fighter for any just cause.

A life-long advocate of Prohibition, Dr. Russell has taken an active part in all campaigns along that line, having averaged from nine to twenty-one speaking engagements a day, during our campaign of a few years ago. She has of course been endorsed by the Prohibition Ratification Committee of the United Dry Forces.

As a lobbyist for laws affecting the people as a whole for several sessions of the Legislature, I have long realized the grave need of such women in our legislative halls. Glendale has an opportunity to send a representative who has a state-wide reputation as a clear, logical thinker and speaker, one who will not only have a vote, but a State-wide influence upon important legislation.

The primary is THE important election. I most earnestly hope that your city will give Dr. Jessie A. Russell a large vote on August 27th.

Sincerely,
HESTER T. GRIFFITH.

Mrs. J. A. Spence is in receipt of a letter from Robert Horn, who enlisted in the Engineering Corps. He is now "somewhere" in North Carolina, and is enjoying his work, especially commenting on the weather, as the thermometer registers over 100 degrees nearly everyday and night.

Mrs. N. B. Butler, and daughter, Miss Mida, and Mrs. John A. Lawyer and son Wesley, of Mariposa street, left Wednesday for a vacation at Santa Monica.

C. M. Burke and family have moved from Cypress street to the Atwater Tract, and as may be noticed from her card in another column, Mrs. Burke will give instructions in mandolin playing.

Conservation of water and flood control for the benefit of this county and its harbor can best be fostered by keeping our excellent engineer on his job and sending Samuel W. Odell to Congress to help make laws relating thereto. AD.

The Confessions of a German Deserter

Written by a Prussian Officer Who Participated in the Ravaging and Pillaging of Belgium

Copyright by Detroit Free Press

An officer rode up and handed an order to our captain. We were halted at a field close to the road. There we were permitted to stack our guns and rest. As we lay at this point we watched the passing columns, field kitchens, munition trains, sanitary columns and field postal wagons racing by in one grand carnival of confusion.

Every wagon carried wounded men. Their faces indicated clearly what tortures they were enduring as they were bumped along over the unspeakable roads upon heavy trucks. Still they were anxious to go ahead at whatever cost. They feared the fate which would befall them should they fall into the hands of their merciless enemy, which would show them the same consideration which they themselves had offered in previous encounters, in which they took no French wounded men prisoners.

Evening came on and with it torrential rain. We lay in the fields, weary and chilled through, yet no one of our unit moved, for we were utterly overcome by exhaustion. Artillery detachments now began to arrive, but few of them had their required number of six guns. Many had only three, others two, and a few proceeded with only one fieldpiece. At one time a whole row of about fifty gun carriages passed without any guns mounted upon them whatever. These batteries had managed to save their horses, but were compelled to abandon their guns to the French. Some carriages were drawn by only two to four horses instead of the required six.

There now passed before us some fifteen magnificent automobiles, the appearance of which won the admiration of everybody.

"Ah," exclaimed many of the soldiers, "the general staff—Duke Albrecht of Wurtemberg and his friends."

Discontent and murmurs of rebellion went through our ranks. Everybody was mad and the accursed torrential rain had no tendency to lighten our spirits. "They have directed the slaughter of thousands and now they motor away," said one man, while we lay here in a morass in the rain. "We are not considered."

What we were to be assigned to do had not yet been told us. We were left lying in our swamp until ten o'clock that night. The troops continued to flow back in great disorganized contingents. Machine gun companies passed with empty wagons, having lost their guns. The thundering of the cannon gradually came nearer from the west. The noise along the highways became greater and a panic spread, adding to the horrors of the night. Fugitives wandered around in the darkness through the streaming rain, trying to lead their wives and children to safety, only to find death under the wheels of the wagons. The wounded were also mangled by scores; piteous cries for help were heard everywhere. Under the strain of the traffic the roads became badly broken up and all along their sides abandoned vehicles of every description lay.

We started forward at about three o'clock in the morning and soon we were with the rear guard. Infantry regiments, now merely fragments of their former strength, arrived in a fearful condition. The soldiers had thrown away their knapsacks and every unnecessary article which might be an impediment to speed.

Before long the first enemy shrapnel burst over our heads, which resulted in an even faster marching. The road used during the first march contained deep shell holes, which were filled with water. In the heavy darkness men fell into these water holes. Thoroughly drenched, we continued our march. No attention was paid to obstacles in the way over which we were constantly stumbling. Speed was the only aim. Dead men and horses lay in the middle of the road, but no one took pains to remove them.

At dawn we arrived at a little village, where we halted. We took possession and established as strong a temporary defense as possible in the time permitted. Our position was established behind a cemetery wall. New troops continued to arrive, but all were badly disorganized. Cavalry, mounted artillery and machine-gun detachments followed. These had some sort of formation and while there was some disorder the panic, which characterized the other units, was missing here. They also showed evidences of having suffered losses, but nothing in comparison to ours.

CHAPTER X.

The enemy's shelling to reduce our position gradually grew stronger, but without effect. Some houses caught fire. Enemy cavalry patrols in strong force appeared and disappeared again. Everything became quiet. Within ten minutes matters again became lively, Enemy Cavalry Patrols.

as large hostile columns approached. We retired some distance without firing a shot. The artillery took a position behind a village and began shelling the approaching enemy. A cavalry patrol galloped across an open field, the horses covered with foam. We heard the commander of the patrol tell a cavalry officer that the enemy were approaching from all sides. We quickly left the village. The artillery remained and the cavalry detachments occupied a position while the cannon were trained on the enemy. Toward noon shrapnel shells again began bursting over our heads, but they exploded too high in the air to do us any damage. Yet this served as a serious reminder to us that the enemy kept right on our heels, a realization of which caused our retreat to become a rout. The numbers who dropped exhausted constantly increased. It was impossible to render them any assistance, for there were no more wagons. Many soldiers used their last atom of strength to drag themselves to the side of the road. Others fell where they were marching to be crushed soon afterward under the horses' hoofs or the wheels of any vehicle that might pass. The road was strewn with equipment thrown away by the soldiers. Our detachments had long since cast aside all unnecessary impedimenta.

In this way we proceeded until we reached a forest which was filled with fugitives. Many of these had stretched some sort of cloth from tree to tree as a protection from the rain. There they lay, men, women and children and old men, some in unspeakable misery. This fugitives' camp was spread over the forests to the edge of the road and as we passed we could see the furrows woven into their faces by the terrible sufferings they had been through. They looked at us with weary and saddened eyes. The children begged for bread, but we had none for ourselves, even though we were tortured by hunger. The enemy's shrapnel continued to accompany us. Scarcely had we passed through the forest when shrapnel burst in it. As a consequence a camp of fugitives, now exposed to trench fire, was abandoned and its numbers sought safety in the open fields. Many tried to accompany us until the order came forbidding them the road, as their advance hindered troop movements. The fugitives, therefore, were forced into the rain-soaked fields.

Toward evening we reached a village which had previously been sacked and here we found some rest. The mayor and two citizens of this village had been seized by the Germans and taken away under cavalry escort. Just why this had been done we were unable to find out. We did know, however, that almost every town was obliged to give hostages. Most of the cattle were taken along and large herds were transported to the rear by cavalry.

We belonged to the rear guards, which explained why we were unable to find anything to eat. There was absolutely nothing to the village where we were now quartered. After half an hour with our hunger still unappeased we resumed our march. After we had marched about three kilometers we arrived at a spot which had formerly been a bivouac. Advancing armies had camped here perhaps eight days before. Bread, which had been plentiful then, lay strewn around on the ground. In spite of its water-soaked condition it had been gathered up and eaten with ravenous appetites. Nothing mattered how our stomachs were filled if only our hunger might be appeased.

AMERICANS ASKED TO LIMIT USE OF SUGAR

Must Use No More Than Two Pounds Per Person a Month if the Present Meagre Allied Sugar Ration Is Maintained.

Stocks Will Be Short Until Beginning of New Year—Ration May Be Enlarged Then.

Two pounds of sugar a month—half a pound a week—that is the sugar ration the U. S. Food Administration has asked every American to observe until January 1, 1919, in order to make sure there shall be enough for our Army and Navy, for the Allied armies and for the civilians of those nations.

By New Year's the world sugar situation will be relieved somewhat by the new crop. Cuban sugar of this year's crop will be arriving in this country.

Every available sugar source will be drawn on by the Food Administration during the next winter months to maintain sufficient stocks here to keep up our national sugar supply. During October the first American beet sugar will arrive in the markets. By the middle of November some of our Louisiana cane crop will be available. All of this sugar and more may be needed to keep this nation supplied on a reduced ration and to safeguard the Allied sugar ration from still further reduction. In Europe the present ration is already reduced to a minimum.

Our Situation.

The situation which the United States faces in its efforts to maintain a fair distribution of sugar to the Allied world is as follows:

Sugar supplies throughout the country, in homes, stores, factories and bakeries are at a low ebb. We must make increased sugar shipments to the Allies.

Production of American beet and Louisiana cane crops have been disappointing.

Porto Rico crops have been curtailed.

Immense sugar stocks in Java cannot be reached on account of the shipping shortage; ships are needed for troop movements and munitions.

Army and Navy sugar requirements have increased as well as those from the Allies.

Most industries using sugar have had their allotment reduced by one-half; some will receive no sugar.

Households should make every effort to preserve the fruit crop without sugar, or with small amounts of sugar. Later, when the sugar supply is larger, the canned fruit may be sweetened as it is used.

Winning the war is the first job of all. No politics in that. But great social, legal and economic questions remain to be solved and should be solved by Republicans, and this district should be represented by Samuel W. Odell, who is one hundred per cent patriotic and Republican He has the endorsement of the Republican Loyalty League. AD.

AT THE PALACE GRAND

The program at the Palace grand today, Saturday, August 24, is one of unusual interest, being the newest and most elaborate production ever made by that popular player, Douglas Fairbanks. The scene of "Bound in Morocco" is laid in Algiers, and it is a snappy twentieth century photoplay filled with comedy which travels at high speed throughout. The action has to do with Arabians, beauties of the harem, fights with bandits, etc. There are battles and chases on the desert, in which hundreds take part, and in which Mr. Fairbanks does his customary dare-devil stunts, one of these being a dive from the top of a high sand dune upon the neck of an Arabian rider, who is passing by on a swiftly speeding horse beneath. This is followed by an exciting hand to hand fight. Children's matinee at 2:30. Two evening shows, 6:45 and 8:45.

For Sunday the attraction presented is the great star of "De Luxe Annie," Norma Talmadge, in her latest thrilling, enjoyable picture, "The Safety Curtain." This will be followed by a good two-reel comedy, "The Widow's Might," featuring Smiling Billy Parsons. Matinee at 2:30. Evening shows at 6:45 and 8:45.

Count Leo Tolstoy's great play, "Resurrection," is the principal attraction for Monday, with Pauline Frederick playing the leading role. It is the story of Katusha, a beautiful Russian girl, betrayed by a scion of the Royal family. Her resurrection, the agonies of an exile in Siberia, and the final dramatic climax, make a picture you cannot afford to miss. Also, a showing of Bruce's wonder outdoor scenes will be given. Matinee at 2:30, evening shows at 7:00 and 8:45.

"To Hell With the Kaiser," the big war picture that has been making such a sensation in Los Angeles, will be shown at the Palace Grand, Tuesday, August 27th. It is the greatest arraignment of Prussianism and the moral baseness of the Hohenzollerns and their kind that has ever been made. It is a commingling of fact and imagination, showing how Wilhelm, the monster of Europe, signs a pact with Satan for the mastery of the world. An American girl sets out to avenge the death of her sister, and is responsible for the dramatic climax in which the Kaiser meets the fate he so richly deserves. Olive Tell and Lawrence Grant have the leading parts and do wonderful work. Regular prices will pravail. Matinee at the usual time, 2:30, and two evening shows, 7 and 9 sharp.

For Wednesday, a peppery comedy, full of joy, is given in "Let's Get a Divorce," with Billie Burke in the principal part. She appears as an orphan in a convent in Southern France, who finds the life there too restricted to suit her taste. As a diversion, she strikes up one flirtation after another, causing much worry to the Mother Superior. It is worth seeing. Also one reel of comdy. Matinee at 2:30, evening shows at 7:00 and 8:45.

For Thursday, August 29, J. Stuart Blackton presents the picturization of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's tremendously successful novel, "Missing." The story deals with the fortunes of a British army officer and his bride. He is reported missing—but—. Also a good Toto comedy, "Do Husbands Deceive?" Matinee at 2:30, evening shows at 7:00 and 8:45.

Samuel W. Odell, of Pasadena, formerly President of the California Dry Federation, is a candidate for Representative in Congress on the Republican ticket. His work for Prohibition speaks for him. Take no backward steps. Vote for him August 27th as the Dry Republican Candidate. He is for bone-dry prohibition. AD.

EPIGRHYMES:

"Militat omnis amans," is some words I seen today when I come in from throwin' down a few forkfuls o' hay. My boy, he's left his college, an' he brung his Ovid book—all foreign stuff at which I took a surreptitious look.
Them words don't mean a thing to me but EVERY little while, the boy sets, quiet, thinkin', on his face the soft o' smile a strong young LOVER has when he IS dreamin' o' his life with her, alone, his sweetheart still, but now—his sweetheart-wife!
An' so I asked the lad about them words I tole you of; he smiled A bit, an' then he spoke;
'twas somethin' 'bout a Love, embracin' Country, Home, an'
gal—the only kind, says he,
that's worth the name; that wars can't kill; that lives eternally.
"An' that's the sort o' love, ol'
Dad," he says, "I wants to give My Flag, My Home, My Sweetheart—
that's the Love I wants to live!
'Twill be so easy, Dad, to Fight—to do jest all I can, a-knowin' here at home she waits—an'
loves—
her SOLDIER Man!"

Vessels sailing from New York in June were cut more than 25 per cent in their sugar requisitions, to conform to the Food Administration ration.

Restaurants and hotels are restricted to two pounds of sugar for every ninety meals served. This includes sugar for kitchen as well as table use.

Almost 70 per cent of all the sugar consumed in this country is used in the households. So it is up to the women to make the sugar go around.

Naval officers and their families who buy at commissary stores have gone on the honor system of sugar purchase established by the Food Administration for civilians.

Out of the last harvest the American people, by abstinence, saved 140,000,000 bushels of wheat to feed the hungry Allied nations; and these same people are going to stay right on the sugar job and see it through.
